

LIST OF MEDIATORS FOR VOLUNTARY MEDIATION

This list is provided as a resource for parties involved in litigation who are attempting to resolve their disputes amicably. The Family Law Facilitator /Self-Help Center cannot recommend any particular mediator. All information contained here is provided by the mediators and has not been confirmed by the Self-Help Center. The specialty areas are coded as follows: Adoption = AD, Business = BN, Education = ED, Employment Issues = EM, Family Law = FL, General Disputes = GD, Landlord Tenant = LT, Real Estate = RE, Small Claims = SC.

Mediation is a voluntary process where the parties are agreeing to participate in a facilitated mediation session or sessions to resolve their disputes. One advantage of mediation is that the parties are able to take time to work out creative solutions designed to fit their individual needs. Mediation does not necessarily involve the court, unless you want the agreement you reached to be adopted by the court as a court order. Your mediator can fully discuss the options available to you.
